YOUR INVITATION TO JOIN AMEE

Perhaps more than at any other time, the scholarship of medical education and the importance of medical education as a discipline are being recognised. Teaching skills are important in all phases of education. There is also a need to stimulate research in medical education and to disseminate the results to the practising teacher in order that evidence may inform teaching.

The Association for Medical Education in Europe (AMEE) is a worldwide organisation with individual, institutional and student members in 90 countries around the world. You are invited to join AMEE and become part of an international network of teachers, trainers, educators, students and organisations committed to encouraging excellence in teaching and learning in the health professions.
